► WORKSHOP SCOPE

With commodity prices at historic highs, and with new technological advances in reservoir description and exploitation now available, both developed and undeveloped assets are changing hands at unprecedented rates and for unheard of prices. Smaller private companies are going public, larger companies are increasing their asset base and expanding into “new” basins, while still others are focusing on their core assets and building critical mass in strategic areas. The application of new technology in old plays, increased exploration in underdeveloped basins and an increased focus on unconventional and/or complex reservoirs fueled by these higher commodity prices has made the A&D market extremely active.

Engineers, geologist, business development managers and asset managers attending this workshop will hear first hand from companies currently active in the A&D arena. Speakers representing E&P companies, consulting services and lending institutions will provide insight into the Strategic Purpose for Acquisitions & Divestitures, the Asset Valuation Methodology, what is involved in Financing Your A & D Activities and the process of Taking Your Company Public – The Road to an IPO.

► WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Engineers, Geologists, business development managers and asset managers all will benefit from attending this timely and important workshop.
